We are Anthony Nolan. We match people with blood cancer or a blood disorder who need a stem cell transplant to amazing strangers ready to donate their stem cells. And every day we give four people another chance to live.

Your students could be lifesavers

We love engaging with sixth form and college students across the country about the lifesaving impact of stem cell donation. We do this through our free education programme, The Hero Project.

We'd love to help inspire the next generation of lifesavers at your school.

“As an A-Level science student I found your aims, work, and ethos incredibly interesting and also important given the pressing issue of blood cancer.”

STUDENT
PIMLICO ACADEMY, LONDON

“We massively appreciate you coming in twice this year now and having such a positive influence on our students. We're very excited for you to join us again next year with the new cohort.”

How will your students get involved?

There are many ways your students could get involved with Anthony Nolan – from simply listening to one of our talks and spreading the word about what we do, to signing up to the stem cell register, or maybe even becoming an Anthony Nolan Champion.

Students who choose to become Champions will not only acquire or develop valuable skills to support their higher education and future employment applications, but they'll have a great time doing it!
